

Morningstar Investment Research Center FAQs

1. What is the Morningstar Investment Research Center?

The Morningstar Investment Research Center is a comprehensive financial database that provides independent ratings and analysis on a wide range of financial products. Up-to-date financial news and information, tools for analyzing your portfolio, and online investment courses and webinars are also available through the Morningstar database.

2. How do I access the site through the Mountain View Public Library?

Access Morningstar by going to <https://mountainview.gov/morningstar> and entering your MVPL card number.

Note: Keep the library name as “mountain view” (lower case), since this field is case sensitive.

The screenshot shows the Morningstar Investment Research Center login interface. At the top, the Morningstar logo is on the left, and the text "Investment Research Center<sup>SM</sup> Provided by" is in the center. An "End Session" button is in the top right corner. Below the header, a message states: "The redesigned security quote pages are now live. To learn about the new pages, download the guide.". A navigation bar contains links: Home, Companies, Funds, ETFs, Markets, Articles & Videos, Portfolio, Help & Education, Newsletters, and a search bar labeled "Enter a Ticker or Name". The main content area features a login box titled "Please Enter Your Library Card Number". Inside this box, there are input fields for "Library" (containing "mountain view") and "Card #". Below these fields, a message reads: "If you are not a subscriber, please call 1-866-215-2509 or Email us." followed by a "LOG IN" button. A red error message at the bottom of the login box says: "Please input your library card number."
